JIM KINNANE, LEG BOSS, IN COURT

Grand Jury Indicts Man Furnishing Brains and Money for Vice Organized for Financial Gain.

Jim Kinnane, political boss of the First ward for years, through his hold upon the powers of the underworld, the free spending of his money in the interest of these political leaders who happened from time to time to be in control of the city administration, the vast number of fraudulent registration papers that he carried on the negro who hung around his dive and his confessed payment of thousands upon thousands of dollars for police protection in his unlawful gambling and liquor operations, is under bond to answer to an indictment charging him with violation of the state liquor laws.

Kinnane was notified by a deputy, and rode to the courthouse in his big touring car, in company with his bondsmen, Frank Tucker and "Two Cannon." After signing the bond for $500, the three re-entered the car and went their way.

The indictment against Kinnane is based upon a raid by deputy United States marshals two weeks ago, when about 200 cases of whiskey were found in two houses adjoining the place on North Front street, near Winchester avenue, which has been known as Kinnane's place. It is ostensibly a soft drink and poolroom, run for negroes, but it is said to have been a meeting place for a half-dozen adjoining houses, in which, at least in the past, there had been all sorts of cheap gambling.

Confessed Buying Protection. Kinnane testified in the earlier suit against William J. Hayes, when Hayes was chief of police, that he had through the whole of 1934, been a caterer to the lower class of negroes in the sale of liquor and beer, and in the sale of his other operations, paid heavily for official protection.

He swore on the witness stand that he had paid Hayes, when he was chief of police, the sum of $2500 in cash during one year and that he always spent $5000 or more in every election in buying poll tax receipts for the negro voters in his ward, besides contributing sums to the campaign fund of those in power in the city hall or in the various county elections in which he took a personal interest.

Suspicion has pointed to the place run as "Kinnane's" frequently during the past year. It was conducted by a man who was, however, supposed to be employed by Kinnane. The place was closed for a time while Harry Litty was mayor, but has been running merrily for the past year. Kinnane, Lorenzo Dowse and John Rhodes, were arrested soon after the raid was made and have been held in jail.

Has Escaped Law. Kinnane's success in escaping any connection with the liquor traffic, so far as the law is concerned, has been because he has not dealt directly, but has only rented his various houses to others who have been conducting the business.

Kinnane, who has been the boss of the First ward for more than 25 years, has always kept in the background himself. He rides around in his big car with several automobiles, but the common conveyance. In the old days he used to have a horse and buggy. Although the various places he owns, he keeps a close eye on them. It is seldom that his big car does not stop every night about midnight near "Kinnane's place" or drive by other houses which he is supposed to have a proprietary interest in.

Best Negro Boss. Kinnane has a faculty for handling and controlling negroes that has been surpassed by any other politician in the city. He is a regular and legitimate channels, and he probably yielded more money. He is said to have a monopoly on the pilots on the Mississippi river who are both able and willing to operate whisky boats at night from Caruthersville down to Tennessee and North Mississippi landings.

The present grand jury has been working for two months to secure evidence that might justify the indictment of some of the men higher up in the illegal liquor traffic. The grand jury has been working to secure evidence that might justify the indictment of some of the men higher up in the illegal liquor traffic.

GEN. ALVAREZ MEETS DEATH AT HANDS OF FIRING SQUAD

VERA CRUZ, Mex., April 23. (By the Associated Press.)—Gen. Francisco Alvarez, of the anti-government forces, has been executed. He met his death at the hands of a firing squad with the utmost bravery.

Gen. Alvarez was sentenced to death by a court-martial here Monday. Alvarez was captured here last Tuesday, when Gen. Aureliano Blanquet, minister of war in the Huerta cabinet, was killed. Many thousands of persons surrounded the barracks when the execution took place.

Alvarez had been sentenced to die at an execution here, but his execution was delayed because of the execution of the supreme court. The execution was held up. The war department, however, ordered the execution to be carried out. Alvarez was brought out to face his executioners.

Two hours before the execution the correspondent of the Associated Press visited Alvarez in his cell. He was absolutely calm and evinced no feeling of regret. He declared he was prepared to die. "I consider the sentence of the military court illegal," said Alvarez, "as I ceased to be a soldier when the federal army disbanded, and I left the country. If an army soldier the court's sentence would have been just."

My wife and child are in New Orleans, and perhaps at this hour do not know of my impending fate. My mother lives in Queretaro. I am ready to die. I am 47 years old. I have many friends here who have visited me in prison, and they have all helped me to face death bravely. None of my old companions of the federal army, however, have come to see me."

WOMAN WEEPS WHEN TOLD OF DEATH. NEW ORLEANS, La., April 23.—Senora Rosenda Cuellar de Alvarez, wife of Gen. Francisco Alvarez, was notified of her husband's death by the first time by newspaper men shortly after midnight. Senora Alvarez was prostrated.

When a dispatch telling her of the general's execution was read she broke into tears. She said her husband was not with her. Punctuating her statement with fits of weeping, Senora Alvarez said she had heard of her husband's arrest by Carranza forces, but did not expect he would receive the death penalty. She said her husband left her here in August and went to Vera Cruz. The last letter from Gen. Alvarez to his family was written March 22, she said.

"We came to New Orleans four years ago," the senora declared, "when my husband was forced out of Mexico City by the rise of Carranza to power. "My husband died for Mexico. The story of his death is so like his that I can not doubt it. He said he would be brave as well as for the sake of my little daughter. My husband said he had heard of her husband's arrest by Carranza forces, but did not expect he would receive the death penalty. She said her husband left her here in August and went to Vera Cruz. The last letter from Gen. Alvarez to his family was written March 22, she said.
